

Greetings,

Summer in Maine is always a special time for our family. Everyone gathers together at our family cottage to laugh, share stories, eat great food and make new memories that last forever. We hope you have the chance to relax and enjoy the company of those close to you during the upcoming lazy, hazy days of summer.

One of the best parts of my job is meeting new people. It's always interesting to find out about their work, their home or barn plans and occasionally I learn about their volunteer work. We had the pleasure of working with a delightful and dedicated couple over the past two years building an indoor riding arena to support their growing horse rescue program.

The project involved the expertise and talent of many professionals and subcontractors - too numerous to mention here. We are thankful for their contributions and enjoyed the process with them. While we are proud of our company's role in the newly designed and constructed arena, it is overshadowed by the valuable work the owners and their staff do at their farm each day. It has been inspiring to see some of what they accomplish with rescued animals and how the new facility will make their tireless work more efficient.

PROJECT SPOTLIGHT

Broadview Farm

The Horses with Hope Organization, located in mid-coast Maine, takes in some of the worst cases of animal abuse and neglect. Working with the horses on a daily basis is a critical part of the process, and with Maine's harsh winters and rainy springs, this had been a challenge. The owners and founders of this organization worked closely with Houses & Barns by John Libby to design and construct a 24,000 square-foot indoor training center that has made year-round rehabilitation possible.

Many special design features were incorporated with the horses in mind including: fifteen massive glulam beams with no support beams to get in the way; extra-large windows and three cupolas that let in lots of sunlight; polymer-fused, wax-coated sand within the arena that cuts down on dust and odor and provides a much healthier environment for the horses; a "Nana Wall" folding window which can be completely opened to allow the viewing area to be part of the arena. The roof and walls are enclosed with SIPs panels, creating insulation which keeps the inside arena surprisingly warm, even during the Maine winters, without any supplemental heat sources.

We are ready to work with you!

Whether you are an architect designing a home with for your client, or a homeowner considering a new project, Houses & Barns by John Libby has the team to make your dream a reality. We are a full service general contractor with 40+ years of experience you can count on. Please give us a call or visit us on the web before beginning your next construction project. We are Quality People doing Quality Work.

Pre-Cut Special Maquoit Frame

We have a weathered display frame for sale at our Freeport shop.

Signature Timber Frame Series

Our timber framing shop has been steady this year fabricating eastern white pine timber frames from our Signature Series. The Harraseeket, our smallest frame at 16' x 20', has been popular this year. Its size provides versatility for a variety of purposes ranging from a one car garage, to a storage shed, to a screened-in outdoor kitchen. We raised a Pettengill in Connecticut and have one planned for the fall on Baileys Island. Our Winslow (26' x 36') is on the design board as a summer beach home and interest in the Maquoit frame (24' x 28') as a guest house continues to grow.
